Dear Norman:

Thanks again for your trip to Maine. Your presentation of the economic theories of Louis Kelso was brilliant and your ability to present these theories to diverse groups was spectacular.

However, I believe that the most lasting effect from your trip will stem from your ability to transform the theories into specific project examples relevant to the listener's own level of comprehension. Your presentation has already affected the planning of several economic development projects. Your discussion with the Governor's Committee on Tax Reform and with several of the Governor's aides may affect the history of this state.

I hope that you can return soon, though I know that there are other places which equally need exposure to Kelso theories and practices. I look forward to the growth of acceptance of these ideas and know that I have met one of the rarest of men--"a prime mover".

Sincerely,

David W. Havens
