Attention: Mr. Norman G. Kurland

Dear Mr. Kurland:

I am writing to thank you for the review of Louis O. Kelso's Two-Factor Theory. I teach a course in the Sociology of Poverty and we spend the latter third of the quarter analyzing proposed solutions to poverty in the United States. We have followed with great interest proposals for the Negative Income Tax, Guaranteed Minimum Income, Family Allowances, Universal Income Payments, and Guaranteed Income Floor--but none provide for basic motivation of the individual as does Mr. Kelso's proposal. Some of my students are already engaged in obtaining the book, and doing an analysis of The Second Income Plan in comparison with the other proposals mentioned.

I can see no reason why it should not be as applicable to Appalachia as to urban slums. Would you please keep me informed of other concrete applications of the plan in areas other than ghettoes.

Most sincerely,

Evelyn B. Powers
